LOCAL MANAGER OF THE SOLDIERS' HOME TESTIFIES.

CITES INSTANCES OF CRUELTY.

GIVES RESULTS OF AN INVESTIGA-TION THAT HE MADE.

Showing Very Unfavorable to Governor Smith-Cooke Opposed to the Keeley Cure in the Home-Prosecution Will Rest To-day.

Leavenworth, Kas., Nov. 21,-(Special.) The Soldiers' home investigation was resumed this morning. While nothing of a sensational nature was brought to light, there was much developed that was unfavorable to Governor Smith. The testimony of Colonel Sidney G. Cooke, of Herington, Kas., local manager of the institution, was, perhaps, the most damaging that has so far been adduced against the home management. Colonel Cooke was the first witness and his examination was conducted chiefly by Colonel R. W. Blue. In response to repeated complaints made to him, on the part of home members, he said, he went to the home, and ascertained by careful int vestigation that marked cruelty was practiced on the inmates. He called the police force before him collectively and individually and found that the force had lied to him, and he then had Lieutenant Robertson and three of his subordinates relieved from the force.

Colonel Cooke said he had officially entered his complaint against the practice at the home of taking orders on pension money in payment for the Keeley treatment. He believed that such orders were contrary to law,

He expressed himself as against the Keeley treatment at the home, because it had a tendency to build up a favorite class and to promote jealousies. He also said he thought that it was wrong for Governor Smith to hold the position of president of the National Keeley League, at a salary of $1,200 per annum, and he had entered his protest at the annual meeting of the national board of managers for the home M. B. Lockhart, of the home, testified to rough and cruel treatment, saying he had seen inmates "bucked," gagged and placed in straight jackets. Edward D. Yager testified that he was downtown and returned to the home five minutes late; that he was arrested and taken before the governor, who said he must leave the home; that he was sent to Dr. Jones for medical examination and in a few days he was discharged from the home. He complained to Colonel Cooke, who had him readmitted.

Charles Ellison testified that a friend of his, named Hiram Greenwood, was confined in the insane ward for four months without being examined, and that it was shown later that he was not insane at all. Corne lius Shea, who had been a member of the home police force, testified to cruelty on the part of the police force. Said he had seen men put in straight tackets and detained in this condition over night. Nearly all of such punishment was given to men under the influence of liquor.

Colonel Cooke, the local manager, was recalled and in response to a query as to cruel treatment he had investigated, said that a man named Moog, nearly 75 years of age, was arrested on returning to camp, for being absent without leave. Captain Drake, in command of Moog's company, given him to-day. The occasion of his told the officer of the guard that Moog was but he was, nevertheless, locked up. Next morning he was taken before Governor Smith, who gave him thirty days on the "dump," and the following day Moog was removed to the bospital, where he died in a very few days.

"Next," said Colonel Cooke, "I investigated the case of a man named McDonald who was arrested in the amusement hall during an entertainment. He was dragged downstairs and was knocked down and was then thrown into the guard house. The next day he had to be placed in the hospital for medical treatment."

The investigation will be resumed tomorrow morning, when it is expected that the prosecution will close and the defense will offer evidence in rebuttal.

FORMALLY DECLARES HIMSELF.

YIELDS TO THE IMPORTUNITIES OF HIS FRIENDS.

His Enemies Will Make an Organized Fight to Down Him-Pop Conference Not a Howling Success-The Vote for State Officers,

Topeka, Kas., Nov. 24.-(Special.) State Bank Commissioner John W. Breidenthal is now an avowed candidate for United States senator. The formal announced was made to-day. Ever since the sweeping fusion victory in Kansas, Breidenthal, who, as chairman of the Populist state committee, furnished the brains for the campaign of the Popocrats, has been lionized by the great majority of his party. They claimed that he was entitled to the best office within their gift, and immediately beseeched him to permit the use of his name as a candidate for United States senator. At first he refused to consider the matter, but it finally dawned upon him that a six year job at $5,000 per year was not to be sneezed at-especially by a member of the party which would pass into history within the next two years, or four at the outside, and he began to think. The more he thought the stronger the pressure became. The temptation to-day reached that point where he was unable to resist longer and he gave it out that he would enter the race. Asked by the Journal correspondent to-night concerning his candidacy Mr. Breidenthal said:

"I don't care to say anything except that I have finally consented to become a candidate. My friends have been urging me to give them permission to go to work for me and I have concluded to do so. I am on quite friendly terms with all the candidates and hope to continue my relations with them, regardless of the result of this contest. So far as I am concerned, no personalities will be indulged in."

While Breidenthal's name has frequently been mentioned as a senatorial possibility, yet there was considerable uncertainty attached to it. Now that he has announced able, but it is creditably reported that two in the Populist party which are opposed children of William Bledsoe, a farmer, to him for anything will unite and make an organized fight to down him.

Still another case was that of Miss Kittie Helmke, aged 24 years, a pupil of the blind asylum, who had no recollection of ever having seen anything. She was able to distinguish shadows, but could not describe the form of objects placed before her.

Dr. Robarts thinks that the apparatus may be developed to a degree that will enable blind persons to see objects with a considerable degree of clearness; also that it may be simplified so as to be more read-lily adapted to the use of blind persons.

Dr. Robarts adduced from the experiments that the retina of the eye is not the actual point of contact at which an object is presented to the senses of the beholder, but that the retina is simply a mirror, which might be replaced with an artificial one, in case other portions of the cyeball remain intact. He contends that, by use of "X" rays, the object, light or shadow is presented directly to the corpora quadra gemina, or germ of sight, located between the cerebrum and cerebellumon a line with the eyes, but nearer to the posterior wall of the skull than to the face. This conclusion that the retina is simply a mirror is directly at variance with all works on physiology, he says, even the latest of which teach that the retina receives the impression of the object, as does the prepared plate of a camera.

The argument of the most public and general interest to-day was that of Assistant Attorney General Goddard, Judge Myers had refused to recognize Mr. Goddard in the case in the state court and had stricken his amendments from the record. The strange relations existing between Judge Myers and the assistant attorney general made the remarks of Mr. Goddard very interesting. He said:

Mr. Goddard's Speech.

"I desire to close this matter briefly for the state. This case was brought to the attention of the attorney general's office on the 6th day of November by the governor of the state of Kansas. On the next day, a message was delivered at the attorney general's office from Governor Morrill in the following words:

" Topeka, Kas., Nov. 7, 1896. To the Hon, F. B. Dawes, Attorney General of the State of Kansas.

'Sir:-In pursuance of the authority in ne vested by the statutes of the state of Kansas, I hereby direct and require you, as the attorney general of said state of Kansas, to appear forthwith for said state and prosecute a certain suit now pending in the district court of Jefferson county, in said state, entitled, The State of Kansas Against the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway Company, filed in said court November 5, 1896, and take such action therein as may be necessary to protect the interests of the said state of Kansas.

"'E. N. MORRILL, Governor." "Section 71 of chapter 166 of the laws of 1879 in relation to state officers reads as

After an exchange of messages between him and myself, Governor Morrill and I took this matter under advisement and considered what should be done for the best interests of the state and what was our duty in respect thereto. I will say frankly to your honor that we looked at the law upon which this action is based, and looked to see what benefits would accrue to the state of Kansas by reason of its prosecution. I must say that we falled to find any benefit accruing from a law, which, if applicable to railways, provides that the right of way of this railroad company from the northeast to the southwest corner of the state must be divided into small parcels and sold at public auction, and the proceeds, after pay-ing the expenses of the proceedings, returned to the corporation ewning the prop-

We endeavored to look at this case tion. We considered the effect which the commencement of the action would have and had already had upon the credit of the state of Kansas, we considered the chances of ultimate defeat in the cause. say, we took all of these things into consideration in determining what our course should be with regard to the case. When we considered, in connection with the case, the very ugly rumors which were then being circulated regarding the connection of certain individuals therewith, the reasons why it has been brought, our first judg-ment was that the case should be dismissed. from the courts, and that it was the duty of the executive officers of the state to get rid of it as speedily as possible; but upon . further consideration we thought: Here is a law of the state of Kansas, standing upto enforce all the laws of the state. had faith in the courts of this country, to be applicable in this case, and if so, whether or not it should be carried out.

"Acting upon that theory. I filed the amendments to the petition which now appears in the record of the cause. I set forth in addition to the facts already true, and no one has ever questioned the truth of one word contained in the amendents to the petition.
"I deem it, if your honor pleases, an honorable thing for an attorney to give to the court before which he practices the truth regarding the case that is being considered. This is especially true of a public presecutor. I filed these amendments so that the court might know more regarding the case that was to be tried.

If the case can be heard before the court, it was right that the hearing should be as speedy as possible, and by filing these amendments I placed the case in such a position that a demurrer could be filed to the petition and all the questions of law involved in the case-and which must ultimately be considered-heard upon the demurrer, and a speedy conclusion reached. If the amendments so filed raised a fed-eral question or made it appear plainer that there is a federal question in the . Continued on Sixth Page.
